THE CANDIDATES.

The Astorian this morning presents its readers with pictures of most of the Republican candidates to be voted upon tomorrow. A short biographical sketch is also given of most of them. Neither are their faces or their history against them. All of them have been in Oregon long enough to have made a record which warranted their party to place them before the people with expectation that they would be able to stand the crucial test of a political campaign. This means that if there was anything against either of them that it would be brought out. In looking over the sketches of the various candidates it is astonishing to find that in a comparatively new country like this, where immigrants are constantly coming into the country, that many of the candidates are native born Oregonians, and several even natives of Clatsop county; and all have lived in the state so long that they have the interest of the state thoroughly at heart.

The Republican party has been careful and lucky in its selection. Not one man on the ticket from congressman to constable has ever done anything that the people can censure him for. All are men of intelligence, honesty, industry and thrift. No voter, be his politics whatever they may, need hesitate to vote for the ticket and may do so with the utmost confidence that if elected, the Republican candidates will give a clean administration. They not only have their county and state at heart, but they have the party of the nation at their backs, ready to endorse them and assist them in keeping this section in the fore and above the assaults of the party against expansion, the party whose attacks upon the government policy in the Philippines strikes a harder blow at Oregon and the counties and cities and towns of Western Oregon than has ever been struck before since it caused the terrible panic of 1893.

A brief mention of the candidates whom the Republican party submit to the voters in Clatsop County tomorrow is not out of place here. There is no hope on the part of the opposition to defeat a majority of the candidates for state office. The main fight is being made on congressmen, the governor and the senatorial, legislative, county and even precinct offices. Bean, for supreme judge, Dunbar for secretary of state, Moore for state treasurer, Whitney for state printer and Ackerman for superintendent of public instruction are not attacked seriously. All of these, except our own F. I. Dunbar are left out of this write-up. As a matter of local pride his picture is given and a short sketch just to please his friends, who constitute the entire citizenship of the county, irrespective of politics. Congressman comes first on the ticket and for this office the to be voted on for that office. Mr. Williamson hails from Crook county. He was born in Lane county, Oregon, in 1855. He came from German descent, crossed with Scotch-Irish. He attended the Willamette University, and with a varied experience in ranching he finally settled in Crook county where he has made a success as a rancher. He served the people of Crook as sheriff, representative in the lower house of the legislature and as state senator. To make a long story short, Mr. Williamson has always proven himself to be a faithful servant of the people and has especially looked after the interest of the poor. This class in Oregon may expect him to stand by their interests when he goes to Congress where he is certain to go as his election is assured. He has an interesting family whom he much adores and is thoroughly identified with home interests of his native state.

The next name on the ticket whom we shall mention is no stranger to the people of Clatsop county. His name is

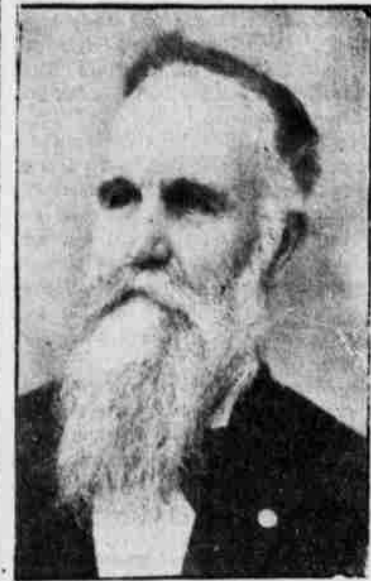

F. I. DUNBAR.

He is a candidate for re-election to the office of Secretary of State. He was born at sea on board American ship Matapan, of which his father, W. M. Dunbar, was captain in September, 1860. His home was Bruston, Mass. Educated in common school of Brooklyn, N. Y. Entered employment of George Bruce, hardware dealer at the age of 15 and raised to chief salesman. Came to Astoria direct from Brooklyn in March, 1882 and entered employ of A. V. Allen's grocery store. Was elected first recorder of Clatsop county in 1886, was re-elected in 1892. In 1894 he succeeded Trenchard as clerk. Married in Seattle, August 14, '98 to Miss Lillian Crosby, daughter of the late Capt. Alfred Crosby. His advancement to the office of secretary of state followed with all of which the people of Clatsop county are familiar. He will get almost the unanimous vote of the county.

The next candidate is also well-known in Clatsop county. His name is CHARLES W. FULTON.

He is a candidate for the state senate. It is unnecessary to introduce him to the citizens of Clatsop county. He is known to every citizen and respected by all. Perhaps no man in the state of Oregon is better or more favorably known than is he. For nearly 25 years he has resided in Astoria. All that he possesses is here, all of his interests are in Clatsop county. He stands at the head of his profession in this state. He is one of the finest orators in all Oregon. He is at all times a plain, honest and conscientious man, loved by his friends and respected by his enemies. He is acknowledged to be one of the very ablest men in his state, either on the stump, at the bar, or socially among his friends. He has no use for riches, and is approachable alike to the poor as well as the rich.

The people of Clatsop county, without political distinction desire his election to the United States Senate. He is strictly the candidate of the people, and unless some unforeseen event changes the usual course of events, Clatsop county will be represented in the senate of the United States, and that by a man who would be a credit to any state in the union, inferior in ability to none, and one who would serve his constituents faithfully, honestly and well.

Then comes the gentlemen who will assist Mr. Fulton in protecting Clatsop's interests at the state capitol. These are the Republican nominees for the legislature. They are both familiarly known in the county.

MR. C. W. CARNAHAN

one of the candidates, was born in Clatsop County in 1858. He was elected assessor of the county in 1896, re-elected in 1898 with more than 800 majority, and in 1900 he was re-elected again with the largest majority of any candidate on the ticket. He is a charter member of the Astoria Progressive Commercial Association (Push Club), and was chairman of the committee on roads of this institution, and also chairman of the agricultural committee from the time of the organization of the club, until he was elected president of the club, which position he still holds. He is an ardent advocate of fish legislation and good roads. He is probably one of the best posted men on the needs of the county at present. His old homestead and it has been named in his honor. In Astoria he has served the city satisfactorily as mayor, and has been city councilman for two terms. He is been made against him by the enemy.

MR. A. SCHERNECKAU.

He is the other candidate for the legislature, is also well known in Clatsop county.

JUDGE J. H. D. GRAY.

candidate for county judge, was born

"NEWT" WILLIAMSON

1869 and settled in Eastern Oregon. He was a pioneer of the country and since 1844, attended private and public school and the Forest Grove Academy in 1856 and 1857. In 1858 he went with his father, W. H. Gray, to Fraser River; returned in Oregon in 1861. In 1862 he engaged in steamboating on the Columbia and Snake Rivers from the Cascades to Boise, but most of the time to Lewiston, until 1868, when he returned to Astoria, where he has since resided.

In 1868 he established a line of steamers to Fort Stevens, Canby and Ilwaco, and continued to manage them until 1880. In 1872, while in Salem attending to private business before the legislature, he saw that the different counties in the state were asking the legislature for appropriations from the state internal improvement fund. Clatsop County's delegation had overlooked this matter, until he called their attention to it, late in the session. By his paying for the preparation of a bill it was introduced and by special aid of his friends, an appropriation of $25,000.00 for a road from Astoria to Forest Grove was secured. He was elected a member of the first City Council and was prominent in securing the first street to Upper Astoria.

In 1884, Judge Gray was elected State Senator from Clatsop, Columbia and Tillamook Counties. This district had long been short of proper representation in the Oregon Legislature, and not withstanding strenuous opposition by the leaders of his party caucus, he finally obtained a reapportionment of the state and secured for Clatsop County one Senator and two Representatives, while before we had only one-third a Senator and one-half a Representative.

In 1882, while still a Senator, he, as chairman of a road caucus, with the assistance of our members secured $5000 for Clatsop County for the Nehalem road from Astoria to the Columbia County line, near Vesper. Since that time, as County Judge, his recent published record has shown what he has accomplished. He has always been foremost in improving roads and streets, in building docks, steamers and barges and other public improvements. The public will undoubtedly ask what is the record of his opponent for County Judge at the coming election?

C. C. CLARKE.

Mr. C. C. Clarke, of Seaside, is the nominee for County Commissioner. Mr. Clarke is engaged in the logging business and other interests. He owns a stage line and has been in charge of a toll road for some time. He is a successful business man in every particular and is also a practical man, just such as is needed in the County Commissioner's office of Clatsop County. He has lived in the county for a number of years, is a man with a lovely family and one that deserves the election to the office to which his friends have nominated him.

THOMAS LINVILLE.

Big-hearted, big Tom Linville is before the people for re-election to the Sheriff's office. If Tom Linville is not elected by a large majority there will be a great surprise to the people of Clatsop. There is no comparison between him and his opponent for fitness to the office. Tom Linville is every inch a sheriff. He is every inch a man and he contains several inches of cutlery. His picture is one of the smallest among the collection, but he is the largest by several pounds. He weighs 250 pounds and there is not a surplus ounce about him. He is exactly fitted in every way for the post-tion to which he aspires. Mr. Linville was born in the state of Missouri in 1861 came to Oregon in 1878 and came to Astoria in 1882 where he has since resided. He was appointed inspector of customs under the Harrison administration, was a police officer, under Chief Twomey and Laughey, was street superintendent in 1898 by appointment to fill a vacancy and was elected next term to fill the position; was appointed sheriff to fill the unexpired term of J. W. Williams, who was killed and then elected to the office at the following election and now seeks a second term. He was married to Miss Emma Carlson in 1892 and has two lovely children. Tom Linville is not only the man for sheriff, but will be elected.

J. C. CLINTON.

J. C. Clinton, the nominee for county clerk, is a native of Astoria, Oregon. He received his education in the Astoria schools. He is a thorough Astorian and Clatsop County man. He was born in 1864. He first entered business as a clerk and confectionary dealer. After following this business for a number of years he was elected Recorder of Clatsop County, which position he filled for about two years when the office was abolished by the legislature. He was appointed deputy county clerk two years ago and in this time has thoroughly familiarized himself with the duties of the office. J. C. Clinton is the man.

CHARLES HEILBORN.

This young gentleman is the candidate for county treasurer. He is another native Oregonian and came to Astoria when only a year old. He is the youngest candidate on the ticket. He is the young Republicans' candidate and the old ones are interested just as much to see him succeed. Mr. Heilborn's father is one of the oldest furniture dealers in Astoria and he became associated with his father when he was only 15 years old and has since continued in the business. While he is only 27 years old he has already proved himself to be a careful and successful business man and thoroughly honest, and for his excellent qualifications the Republicans gave him the
